

A Million Miles Away

Tekst: Helle Hansen Musik: Jonas Krag

Now that you`re with me how come
I`m feelin` so lonely?
Where did this silence come from?

Our rooms have lost their rightness
It leaves us feelin` small
These levels of politeness
Offer no help at all

And every time we argue
We lose another word
Still I should`ve told you
What you should long have heard

I would rather be in love with you
Than a million miles away
And I`m so afraid I`m leaving you
Even though I wish to stay
I would rather be in love with you
Than a million miles away
And I`m so afraid of losing you
Due to words I could not say
I`m right here and so far away

Darkness embraces these halls
Doors slowly closing
Where do we go when night falls?

Once we saw no dangers
Love made perfect sense
Now we`re perfect strangers
Court in the perfect tense
And every time we argue
We lose another word
Still I should`ve told you
What you should long have heard

I would rather be in love with you

Please don`t let me go away
